Corporate Coaching helps organizations cultivate and improve the return on an often overlooked and undervalued investment: employees. Companies that have used professional coaching for business reasons have seen a median return of seven times their initial investment.

With flexible, personalized and collaborative Corporate Coaching, you can foster leadership, overcome problems and challenges or help you or your employee make a successful career transition.

leadership
Sid needs some help making the leap from tactical contributor to strong and confident leader.

challenge
Diego is a high performer who needs to improve his communicating and influencing skills.

transition
There is just no one within the company that has the time to mentor Jill for this new role.
Corporate Education Group’s (CEG) Corporate Coaching Solutions foster individual growth and achieve tangible performance-improvement objectives through a flexible, personalized and collaborative approach. They are designed for business professionals, including high-potential contributors and senior managers who need:

- Leadership development
- Support for a career transition
- Help overcoming a specific problem or challenge

The need for coaching is not always identified by the Coaching Candidate. Often it’s a Sponsor (usually a manager or supervisor) who recognizes the benefits coaching can have on an individual. The most successful coaching programs begin with open dialog and collaboration between the Candidate, Sponsor and Human Resources to ensure all stakeholder goals and expectations are accounted for and met.

How We Coach
From management grooming to skills development, coaching is never a one-size-fits-all strategy. Every CEG coaching engagement is unique and begins with a preliminary meeting of all stakeholders to agree on a set of coaching objectives, the approach and timeline. Since coaching is a personal journey navigated within a professional environment, every Candidate has an opportunity to interview and select his/her Coach.

CEG has designed a five-phase coaching methodology proven to enable desired outcomes with all of our Corporate Coaching Solutions.

1. Research Phase
   - Assessment and Analysis

2. Architect Phase
   - Plan and Goal Setting

3. Execution Phase
   - Ongoing Coaching and Mentoring

4. Review Phase
   - Feedback and Progress Update

5. Wrap-Up Phase
   - Successful Completion of the Program

The Coaching Bench
Our seasoned coaches take a consultative approach to every engagement and have real-world experience that gives them perspective on what it takes to succeed in today's business landscape. Their expertise and professional credentials are frequently validated by relevant industry certifications (PCC, CPCC, MCC, PMP, CBAP). All information discussed between the Candidate and the Coach is confidential and only information approved by the Candidate, will be shared with the Sponsor or key stakeholders.

Integrated Training and Coaching Solutions
For organizations that provide corporate training to employees and teams, integrating coaching into the training mix can result in powerful benefits. Coaching can help you put newly learned skills into practice and reinforce learning through real-world application. You can avoid common post-training pitfalls and ensure bad habits are shed for good. An integrated Training and Coaching Solution delivers top-line results with long-term, bottom-line impact.
